FINANCES and MARKETS

[Republican A. P. Leased Wire]

NEW YORK, May 22.—Last week's bullish demonstration in securities of the better class was resumed with greater breadth and all around activity today, the railway division being again the center of a buying movement which carried Reading to a new high record and elevated other potential issues to highest prices in more than a year. Specialties were under steady restraint in consequence of profit-taking but the few recessions in that quarter were nominal as compared with substantial gains elsewhere.

Reading did not get into action until after the session had been half spent. News from Washington that the supreme court had rendered a decision favorable to coal companies inaugurated a fresh demand. The stock was carried up to 107 3/4, 31 points above its previous best and although yielding materially at times, closed only 1/4 under its new maximum, on a total output of 200,000 shares or almost a quarter of the day's business.

The inquiry for Harriman, St. Paul and other seasoned rails was scarcely less impressive. Union Pacific making a maximum gain of 2 1/2 at 142 1/2, its best price, though the stock was reduced to the right percent basis, with a gain of 3/4 for Southern Pacific while St. Paul rose 2 1/2 to par.

Canadian Pacific was the only inconsistent feature, scoring an advance of 1 1/2 points but finishing with a fractional decline. United States Steel attained the high price of 88, but was again freely offered on its rise, closing with a small fractional gain. Total sales amounted to 915,000 shares.

Speculative issues were in demand in the bond market, which reflected the strength of stocks. Total sales for value were $2,210,000.

United States bonds were unchanged on call.

FURNELL, QUEER, ASKS AID OF THE VIRGIN

Man Who Threw Rock Through Window to Be Examined for His Sanity Today

"Please, Virgin Mother, come out from under the veil—Freddy, the slave, is in jail."

Fred Furnell, who was arrested twenty days ago for throwing a rock through the window of an employment agency, has passed his time in jail writing letters all of which are addressed to the Virgin Mother. He has entreated her to come to his aid, to confound the police and to especially implore her to kill the wasps, "and if you do not come I will cut you in two and make you the Protestant Boy—Lord Baltimore."

While his "specialties" took the form of letter-writing he was not interfered with but when he became violent Chief of Police George Briscoe thought it time some one looked into his case and he was examined for his sanity yesterday, the case going over until today.

When confronted with the letters, Furnell denied all knowledge of them. He said positively that he did not write them. He scoffed at the idea of his being insane, "Bah," he said, "I want to go back to Ireland." No one seems to know anything about the man nor from where he came. Every day since he was taken into custody by the police he has become more irrational. A few days ago he had difficulties with a fellow prisoner and did him up severely. He is a powerful man and it took the jailers to get him under control.

EQUIPMENT FOR NEW OIL VENTURE

Y. L. Holmes announced yesterday that machinery had been bought for the work to be done by the Easter Standard Oil drill, regular 40 horse power steam boiler, and 30 horse power engine, has not only been bought but paid for and will be here and in operation early next month. It is the intention of this company not to stop drilling until at least 4,000 feet have been reached if it is necessary to go that far for oil in commercial quantities. The men associated with Mr. Holmes in the development of the oil possibilities here are widely known in local business circles. Mr. Easter of the John F. Barker Produce Company, and E. C. Moore of the Wakelin Grocery Company are the two men permanently identified with Mr. Holmes in the handling of this business.

The prospect of an oil field located eight miles south and one mile east of an airline from Phoenix. By road it is twelve miles, a little east of south of Phoenix, just on the other side of the hills.

AMUSEMENTS

MAE MARSH IN PRETTY OFFERING

The following is given by Grayville Warwick, a Triangle scenario writer, as the recipe for a motion picture plot: To one orphan asylum add one crabbed matron. This simple mixture should be allowed to stand for a few weeks, at the end of which time it will be found that the influence of the crabbed matron will have broken one orphan into open rebellion against outrageous treatment. Set over a fire, which presently will cause a conflagration in the asylum calculated to give the orphan a chance to prove her worth as a heroine, and so bring her to the attention of the elderly couple in the vicinity, who have slowly been poured in.

After allowing to stand for some time longer it will be found that the orphan has risen considerably through the kindness of the elderly couple; and now it will be time to add one handsome, young lawyer's son, who will promptly fall in love with the orphan. To test the mixture, introduce some complication in the shape of a supposed murder by the orphan. This will try out the constancy of the lawyer's son. If he proves constant, clear up by having the supposedly dead man appear at the trial and prove his own alibi.

THE THOROUGHbred AT THE LION TODAY

Through delay in shipment "The Thoroughbred" failed to arrive yesterday but will be shown at the Lion today. "The Thoroughbred" is a great picture. It begins with a thrill. It ends with a greater one. And the middle is all bolstered up with thrills of all sizes and dimensions which keep you hanging on the handles of your seat.

There are wonderful stretches of country, pictured in the panoramic view glimpsed by the camera; there are hills, valleys, mountain torrents. The freedom and wildness of the western spirit has been enshrined and given back again to the people in cities who long for it on the picture screen.

Charles Bartlett, the American director, has created a work of art in "The Thoroughbred," and William Russell and Charlotte Burton, the leading players, have outdone themselves in excellent character portrayal.

"The Thoroughbred" will be shown today only, followed tomorrow with Edith Storey in a V. L. S. E. feature "The Two Edged Sword."

Frank Sheridan, famous on the American stage for his versatility as a character actor, and winning high praise for his excellent work in various screen productions, including "The Money Master," will make his appearance as an Equitable star in "The Struggle," co-starring with Arthur Ashley and Ethel Grey Terry. "The Struggle" will be seen at the Lamara today.

Columbia Has Splendid Bill

Tonight will see the passing of a picture that has set a mark at the Columbia. Coming to the theater of many comforts with a handicap in its poor title, it has charmed a splendid following with its supreme naturalness, its novelty, its absence of fifth, and underworld environment. "The Crippled Hand" is perhaps the daintiest picture that the Columbia has

Best picture that the Columbia has been able to buy on the market. It is not only a picture that will delight the grown up but it is so pretty and so appealing to the child that it served a two-fold purpose in its presentation here. It is to be supplanted tomorrow with a picture that serves two purposes. It introduces one of the most talented women in the stage world, Mabel Taliferro, who will be recalled Saturday.
